Welcome to the Home of 650 Bird Species

Malawi is home to over 650 species of birds, 10% of which cannot be found anywhere else in southern Africa. Malawi is an invaluable birding destination for ornithologists and bird lovers, but even if you've never been birding before, the colourful variety of birds will fascinate you and give you the experience of a lifetime. Malawi has a wide range of bird species, from the truly endemic Yellow-throated Apalis, to the endangered Cholo Alethe and the very large Marabou Stork, which reaches over 150 cm.

The reason for this is easily seen in Malawi's geographical location and the diversity of its environmental range. Malawi is a unique country, being long and narrow in shape, with one third of its land area occupied by the huge and beautiful Lake Malawi. The Nyika plateau in the north, the rainforests in the mountains of Mulanje in the south, and the wetlands on the shores of Lake Malawi and along the Shire River - plateaus, mountains, lakes and wetlands all coexist in a relatively small area of land, providing for all kinds of bird habitat requirements.

Explore Best Places For Birding In Malawi

No particular bird species is often limited to a single habitat, and they can all be seen almost anywhere if the conditions are right. However, the majority of natural habitats are found within national parks, wildlife reserves and forest reserves and are the first choice of birders wishing to experience the richness of Malawi's birdlife. Nyika National Park, Liwonde National Park, Lengwe National Park, the Lake Malawi which is the waterfowl sanctuary and the Miombo Forest in the Dzalanyama Forest Reserve are particularly popular with birders. Expert guides are also available in the parks.

Best Time For Birding In Malawi

More than 80% of Malawi's species have been recorded as breeding in Malawi, so birdwatching in Malawi is possible at any time of year. However, if you want to see many species, including migratory birds from Europe, Asia and North Africa, the most suitable time for birding is from late September near the end of the dry season to April at the end of the rainy season. November and December are the best times for birding before the rains because this is when bird numbers are at their highest and the plumage of many birds is at its most colourful.

Nyika National Park

Located in Northern Malawi, Nyika National Park is home to over 400 species of birds and is a true birdwatching hotspot in Malawi. The park is widely regarded as one of the most scenic parks in Africa, with rolling montane grasslands, interspersed with montane forests in the valleys, but with vast expanses of miombo forest at the bottom of the slopes.

Birdwatching is possible throughout the year, but the best time to see a combination of both local and migratory birds is during the rainy season from November to April.

Liwonde National Park

Situated along the Shire side, Liwonde National Park is probably the most popular birding destination in Southern Malawi. The park is home to around 300 species of birds as well as large mammals such as lions, elephants and hippos. The giant Marabou Stork is one of the most impressive birds to be seen near the lake due to its size.

Mount Mulanje

Mount Mulanje is Malawi's highest mountain at 3,002m in southern Malawi. It rises abruptly from the plains at an altitude of 600-700m to a plateau at an altitude of 1,800-1,900m, on top of which rises a rocky peak with a maximum height of 3,002m. These highlands provide a unique habitat and around 180 bird species have been recorded. The endangered Cholo Alethe has also been found here.

Around 300 bird species have been identified and Dzalanyama often hosts international birdwatchers.

Zomba Plateau

The Zomba Plateau is one of Malawi's highlands, along with the Nyika Plateau. However, in contrast to the moorlands and grasslands of Nyika, the Zomba Plateau is home to vast cedar, pine and cypress forests interspersed with a variety of endemic wildflowers, forming a paradise for birds. Although there are not as many mammal species as compared to Nyika, it is home to many colourful and vibrant bird species.

To see all the waterbirds, it is best to take a boat with the help of a tour guide.

Ntchisi Forest Reserve

Ntchisi Forest Reserve which lies about 90km north-east of Lilongwe, at an altitude of 1500-1700 m and covers an area of about 75 km², is one of Malawi's remaining intact tropical rainforests. The richness of the vegetation in this forest - pines towering 30m overhead, brachystegia, heliconia, giant figs, vines and ferns - ensures that birdwatchers see a wide range of bird species.
